

Summary

Mission Statement: Specific goals

- 1) This will be a program for leadership training and be designed for those individuals who have demonstrated leadership skill.
- 2) To be a leader of the Jewish people is to understand and develop one's own personal commitment to Judaism and to be able articulate such a commitment and vision.
- 3) Jewish models of leadership demand introspection of both the Jewish and personal identities of the individual participants. Opportunities for such personal introspection will be a significant aspect of the program.
- 4) An important challenge for the Jewish people is finding a way to include a variety of opinions within the community. This program will focus around such an attempt.
- 5) Building such a community is a difficult task and therefore serious community-building methods will be employed and this effort will be understood to be as serious as the intellectual component of the program.
